

You were talking too loudly. Now you've been found by slave hunters who will return you to your owner.

You weren't paying attention, so you took a wrong turn and got lost in the cornfield.

You made too much noise, so your hiding place was discovered by a slave hunter and his dogs.

You weren't careful, and as a result, you left tracks that led to your capture.